They seem okay, but there are better options. For 4, I prefer for him instead of from him since for is used when you do something on someone.

Regards is a synonym for greetings. Either phrase would be used in a formal letter; you wouldn't use these greetings in a letter to a close friend. Regards To My Best Friend. I hope, someday, when we're withered and rusty, worlds apart, or right up the alley, you'll find me. You'll find me in. A married friend of the opposite sex who I feel warmly about wrote to me and signed warm regards. I would like to send back warm regards too. Be good,; Be well,; Best Regards,; Best wishes for your future,; Best Wishes, the highest esteem, I am a friend of virtue and the people,; With kind affection.

'Accept your copy, with kind regards, from your affectionate friend Charles Dickens': Letter reveals how author gave copies of his first novel to.

It can also mean to believe, as in I regard her as my best friend. Regard often means respect and admiration, as in I have the greatest regard for my grandmother. Sometimes it's a greeting: you can send someone your regards, which means to tell them you said hello and wish them well.
